Man Who Registers From St. Louis Disappears Mysteriously at New Orleans.

RECEIVES MONEY BY EXPRESS.

Police Undetermined Whether He Is in Hiding or Whether He Is the Victim of Foul REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New Orleans, March 6.-The police of this city for nearly a week have been attempting to unravel the mystery of the disappearance of Victor R. Stowe from the Parkview Hotel, February 23. The papers left behind him give no clew as to wheth er his disappearance was voluntary or the result of foul play, though the inference is toward the latter cause.

Stowe registered at the hotel, which is a small and unimportant one, February 12, as from St. Louis. He paid for his lodging in advance, and, when the carnival crowd departed, secured a better room. Sunday before his disappearance he showed the hotel clerk a telegram from a bank at Martinsburg, Mo., reading: "We sent you money by express." He asked the clerk to identify him at the express office, and the clerk agreed to do so Monday. Monday Stowe was in good spirits, but he made no reference to the proposed identification. Monday night roomers next to Stowe reported to the hotel proprietor that Stowe was evidently quite sick during the night and gave evidence of nausea. Tuesday morning, however, Stowe appeared about the hotel, evidently in good health and spirits. In the forenoon he left the hotel and no trace of him has since been found. ing in advance, and, when the carnival

A search was begun, but up to the present time no clew has been discovered of his whereabouts. A search of his room showed that his effects were lying about as though he had intended to return soon, articles of clothing being scattered around the room. His baggage had been brought to the hotel in a hand satched, but papers found in the satchel indicated that he was a man of means. There was nothing to indicate that he had ever lived in the city from which he registered, but letters were found showing he had close friends in Arlanta.

Several letters were found from the Martinsburg (Mo.) Bank which showed that Stowe was the owner of considerable real estate in that town and section.

A series of daily reports from a detective referred to the shadowing of a "Mr. Sawyer," but Stowe's name does not appear anywhere in the reports. All the correspondence in the satchel was addressed to Stowe at No. 10. West One Hundred and Sixth street, New York City. Among the papers was a bill of sale to Stowe for 3600 of a thirty-foot sloop sailing under the flag of the Harlem Yacht Club. The sale was made by Charles, John W. and Fred G.
